Our Teaching Methodology

Liberation Business School Believes in the process of EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING.

Simply, Classroom teaching is no more engaging, exciting & effective. Classroom teaching treats students merely as spectators, no where encouraging partnership of ideas and questioning of thoughts.

Liberation Business School aims at integrating classroom teaching mechanics with experiential learning, where the student becomes the focus of attention and the subject merely a tool to stimulate the student's thinking. This integration then lays the foundation of giving support to creative thought processes & lateral thinking. The combination of experiential learning & classroom teaching model provides the ground for world class business & management education.
